

GUIDELINES

Photography can be inspired by a book, a poem, a painting, a song, a film. A series can be provocative, glamorous, timeless and never banal.

We invite analog photographers, from all over the world, to send us their beautiful unpublished material to be considered for publication on our website. Please, send your analog photos for our online stories following these guidelines.

We love simple and natural stories that talk about the mental state of a human life. They must be natural and without filters. Even the appearance of the model must be as natural as possible. You are free to follow a trend or not and to be able to create a harmony and a logical thread that connects the photos.

We accept exclusive editorials / fashion stories & film series.

Mood: 70', 80', 90' and everyday life.

10/20 photos in high resolution Formats: 135 or 120 film format digitalised in .jpg via WeTransfer (preview in PDF is required) About you and credits: Please write your bio, a link of your website, social links and all necessary credits

Equipment: Please insert the equipment that has been used, including film and camera If you want you can write an anecdote or a story related to the photos you've taken

Contributors & writers are invited to send their contribution

Everything about photography, art, fashion and music.

We also encourage emerging or established film makers to send us a video of up to 1 minute in length. A video of the shooting or related to the photos you sent. The video will be uploaded to our Youtube channel together with the photographic series.

All photos and videos are welcome, but be sure to submit material that reflects the aesthetic of PARANOIA. In any case, PARANOIA reserves the right to choose and publish images or complete series closer to its concept and we can't guarantee that each series will be published. We try to answer everyone, but if we don't respond within two weeks, you can consider your request not accepted (read the Disclaimer below before sending any messages).
